

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

5 The structure of an ashtray for automobiles in a slide-type fashion of a main body sliding into and out of a housing, in which there is no clearance between guide rails of the main body and the guide grooves of the housing during slide motion of the guide rails along the guide grooves, thus preventing movements of the main body when the main body is drawn into and out of the housing, and improving stability.